European Network for Traveller Education

www.ente.education

The current situation:

Hundreds and thousands of people in Europe travel for professional reasons, including among others showmen, circus performers, other performers, bargees, seasonal workers, and market traders.

Their travelling life implies that access to education and vocational training for them and their children is made difficult and is limited.

It is important to strengthen the cooperation between the European countries and the parties concerned with the objective to improve the educational and vocational training opportunities, above all for children and adolescents of travelling families.

Therefore the EUROPEAN NETWORK FOR TRAVELLER EDUCATION (ENTE), which is concerned with the educational and vocational training opportunities of the travelling communities, was launched by organizations and institutions from various EU countries.

ENTE e.V. is a registered non-profit organization, which works on a volunteer basis close to the educational needs of parents and children from families who travel for occupational reasons.

A network such as this depends on the initiative and participation of many partners.

We therefore cordially invite parents, federations, institutions, schools, and elected representatives, members of parliament, school governors, the churches and the general public to benefit from ENTE e.V. and to collaborate with us in order to actively shape it.
